

CLEVELAND FLYERS BREAK RECORD

MAY ORDER MARTIAL LAW AGAINST RIOTS OF STRIKING CARMEN

Sympathizers Burn Cars; Police And Firemen Helpless

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 6.—A mob of 5,000 striking car men sympathizers fired seven street cars in the canal barns today and held back firemen and police with bricks and clubs allowing the street cars to be consumed.

While firemen and police were attempting to approach the fire at the canal barn, a stick of dynamite was hurled into the Poland car barns. The dynamite blast did little damage, however.

Police attempted to disperse the crowd with tear bombs, but were unsuccessful.

Burning of the cars followed a night of rioting in which desperate efforts were made to reach strike-breakers entrenched in the canal barns.

The governor it was hinted in official circles, would be asked to declare martial law today.

The Public Service Company seemed determined not to give in to the demands of the strikers for more pay and shorter working days. No street cars or buses were being operated, an injunction having been obtained to prevent the manning of cars and buses with strike breakers.

The restraining order followed clashes which resulted in the deaths of Joseph Molinaro, 65-year-old car washer, and Stevian Thibodeaux.

Both the men were strikers. Molinaro was shot through the throat when he participated in a mixed battle with strike breakers and Thibodeaux was fatally wounded during a riot at the Canal St. barn.

Three policemen have turned in their badges, declaring they would not use their guns against friends. Hundreds of persons, many of them not in any way involved in the dispute, have been injured by bricks, timbers and stones littering in the rioting.

Battered street cars, the debris of cars destroyed by fire, and bricks, timbers and stones littering the vicinity of the car barns gave evidence of the prevalent mob spirit.

The strike started last Monday when union motormen walked out after a strike vote by acclamation. The principal demands of the strikers are for an eight-hour day instead of working nine hours; sixty cents an hour instead of forty-five for the first six months of service; proportionate increases for greater length of service; promotion by ability and seniority; elimination of the contract's "no-strike" clause, and non interference with the affairs of the union association.

First Love Still Holds

Not many actresses get the chance to turn down the figures on the contract which was offered Ethel Barrymore to appear in a talkie movie. She said she did not like her first appearance in the silent films some years ago and thinks the talkies are terrible, although film experts say that her voice is ideal. She'll stick to her first love—the stage.

CONVICT KILLED BY GUARDS IN ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE PRISON

Prisoner Shot In Fleeing From His Guards

OHIO STATE PENITENTIARY, Columbus, O., July 6.—William Perry, 38, Negro convict sent up from Cleveland, was shot and killed early today when he broke away from Night Captain Hall who was transferring him to solitary confinement.

The transfer was ordered after Perry created a disturbance in his cell. As the prisoner broke and ran several guards fired, wounding him fatally. He died a half hour later.

Perry was serving 10 to 25 years for robbery.

Perry was, twenty years old. When he broke away Capt. Hall ordered him to halt. This attracted the guards, who fired into the air, then fired at the fleeing man.

Several bullets penetrated Perry's chest and arms and a stray bullet ripped through the coat of guard James R. Clark.

Perry was transferred to the penitentiary from the Mansfield reformatory on Jan. 22, 1929 when he became unmanageable.

The negro was sent up with Clarence Carter, also colored, after they pleaded guilty to robbing a man of $17.50. They were admitted to the reformatory March 3, 1926.

Perry tried to kill himself last month when he slashed his throat with a spike which he had flattened and sharpened, guards said.

When the lights were extinguished at 9 o'clock last night Perry refused to retire, Capt. Hall said. The negro then began pounding on the bars and other metal objects in the cell and other prisoners complained.

The transfer was then ordered.

QUESTION EIGHT IN DEATH OF JANITOR

COLUMBUS, O., July 6.—Eight Columbus hunters, including four Negroes, were questioned at Urbana today in connection with the death of Cunningham Ashenbush, 56, Ohio State University janitor who was shot Thursday while hunting ground hogs near Lewisburg. Ashenbush was killed by a stray rifle bullet. Those questioned were known to have been in the vicinity.

ACCUSED OF MURDER

STEBENVILLE, O., July 6.—A charge of first degree murder was expected to be lodged today against Michael Trombetti, 33, a taxicab chauffeur who shot and killed his father-in-law, William Anderson, 51, while the two men were en route to a justice's office for hearing in connection with Trombetti's treatment of his wife, Anderson's daughter. Trombetti was to have been placed under a peace bond.

CAR CRUSHES CHILD
COLUMBUS, O., July 6.—Eileen Sullivan, 6, was crushed to death beneath the wheels of a street car here last night while her mother looked on horrified. The child was killed when she started to run across the street.

VICTIMS OF DETROIT AXE-SLAYER

Bennie Evangelista, Detroit faith healer, his wife Satina, inset, and three of his four children, all victims of an axe-slayer for whom Detroit police are seeking. The bodies of the six Evangelistas were found, brutally hacked in their home. Police believe the slayer to be a religious fanatic.

CRIMINAL ACTION AGAINST DRY RAIDERS BEING AROUSED

TECUMSEH, Okla., July 6.—Criminal action against four "dry" agents, who killed Oscar Lowery and James Harris in a raid on a farm house near here Thursday, was spurred today by numerous resolutions condemning that action of the raiders.

The Oklahoma City American Legion post and groups of Tecumseh citizens and farmers refused to accept the statements of prohibition agents that the shootings were committed in self defense and passed resolutions upholding the slain men as innocent of prohibition violation and condemning the killings as "unjust."

The four members of the raiding party, W. W. Thomason, veteran federal agent, Jeff Harris, John D. Williams and Tom Little, were charged with first degree murder by County Attorney Randall Pittman. Thomason was released to district prohibition headquarters to submit his report of the incident but the others were held in cells at the Pottawatomie County Jail.

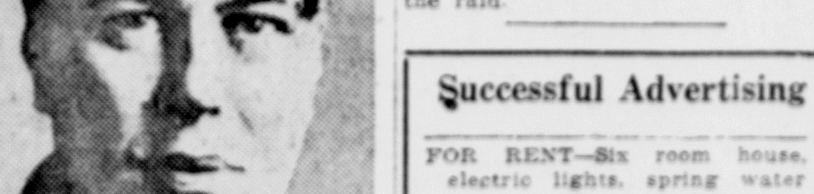

The murder charges were based on the death bed statement of James Harris who told officers that he and Lowery, believing the raiders were robbers, had appeared with a gun to defend themselves but had obeyed orders to drop it when they were fired upon by Jeff Harris. The latter denied the statement and declared the farmer had rushed at him with the weapon and that he had fired in self-defense.

Ree de Monbrun, federal prohibition director for western Oklahoma, was in Shawnee today conducting an investigation of the shootings. He refused to comment pending filing of the complete report of Thomason who was the leader of the raiding party.

County Attorney Pittman claimed that Thomason was without authority to deputize the three men who accompanied him and were said to have been without official credentials. Pittman also asserted no warrant had been issued for the raid. No liquor was found in the farmhouse, he said. He cited statements of neighbors of the men that both were respected law abiding farmers.

The two victims were brothers-in-law. Harris died a few hours after the shooting. Lowery lived until last night but never was able to make any statement concerning the raid.

RECORD BREAKERS HAPPY

Tired Endurance Flyers Play Like Kids As Relief Comes After Flight.

CLEVELAND, O., July 6.—The two happiest men in Cleveland—and probably the tireddest—looked at each other while a score of hands thumped their backs.

"Mitch, you big mutt, you need a shave," said Byron K. Newcomb, adding a big hand to the thumping.

"Newk, if I looked like you I'd jump out the window," said Roy Mitchell.

And the thumping continued. The scene was the tenth floor of Hotel Winton just after the flyers arrived there early today.

Haggard, red-eyed, wobbly on their feet, Newcomb and Mitchell slumped into a wide sofa in the room that had been reserved for them for a week, waiting for the early morning that would bring them in with the record.

But no matter how much they needed sleep, no matter how much they wanted to be alone, Newcomb and Mitchell were flyers still.

Newcomb hugged the barograph that contains the neatly graphed official record of their record-breaking flight. He refused to give it up. With Mitchell they went over it.

"Here's the day we hit the fog," Mitchell said as he traced the narrow white line on the black paper. See how she dips there.

"Yeh, and look at this storm night," added Newcomb.

Eddie Stinson, builder of the plane the two men flew for 174 hours, came over to look at the barograph.

"Gimme that thing and get to bed, you two buzzards," said Stinson.

"Now, look here, Eddie," said Newcomb. "Here's where we made the first contact. Here's where we headed into the wind to flip back the hose, see."

Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Newcomb, shrouded into the background by more intense admirers, finally got to the flyers. They "ordered" their tired husbands to bed.

But first they'd pose for a "last picture."

"Hell, this is tougher than flying," said Newcomb.

"Aw shut up," said Mitchell.

City Manager W. R. Hopkins extended his hand to the men for a "last" congratulation.

"Better get some sleep," he said. "O. K. boss," said Mitchell.

"Now, look how this thing jumped around during that storm"—Newcomb was still flying the flight that set the record.

Finally, the crowd drifted away from the rooms.

"Listen, I'm going to sleep from now on," said Mitchell.

"Why, you do it, I'll throw you out the window," said Newcomb.

And so to bed.

BETTER PART OF VALOR
COLDWATER, Mich., July 6.—A Chicago-owned automobile went through Coldwater here enroute to Detroit with a sign front and rear which read "Don't shoot, we have no liquor."

SLAYS YOUNG WIFE AFTER ARGUMENT
JACKSON, Mich., July 6.—J. Howard Shorney, 24-year-old son of a minister who killed his young wife when she "dared" him to prove he was not the father of her unborn child, was arraigned here today on a first degree murder charge.

Shorney, in a written statement today, confessed beating his wife to death with a poker as they were preparing to start on a picnic with their fifteen-month-old son, on July 4.

Mrs. Shorney, 22, adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cheney, admitted to her husband several weeks ago that he was not the father of her expected child, Shorney declared.

ENDURANCE KINGS

ENDED SATURDAY AS TIME RECORD FALLS

Crowd Mobs Airmen After Landing At Airport

CLEVELAND, O., July 6.—A new world's refueling endurance flight record today crowned the efforts of Byron K. Newcomb and Roy L. Mitchell, co-pilots of the endurance plane "City of Cleveland."

They established sustained flying time of 174 hours and fifty-nine seconds, eclipsing the former mark of 172 hours and thirty-two minutes made by Reg Robbins and Jim Kelly, Texas. The "City of Cleveland" was brought to earth at 12:39:50 a. m. today, after having been aloft since 6:38:51 p. m. Friday, June 28.

"We busted the record so we came down," the pilots said.

As they made that statement the ex-army flyers were surrounded by a shouting, howling, whistling mob of 100,000 persons. Police fought the crowd back to enable the plane to taxi to the Stewart Aircraft Corporation hangar. It moved along slowly and souvenir hunters virtually stripped it of all fabric.

As the tired aviators stepped to the ground the crowd surged forward. The heroes were raised up on stairway shoulders. Police cleared a way to the hangar entrance. Through it sped Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Newcomb.

"Billie!" shouted Newcomb, crushing his wife in his arms and smothering her with kisses.

"Too hoarse to utter a sound, Mitchell just folded his wife to him and kissed her.

The wives were speechless. Tears of happiness streamed through their smiles.

Struggling with the crowd, the police escort literally dragged the flyers into the hangar and over to a small office crowded with well wishers. A score of people closed in to get a look at the record breakers and a closed window at the other end of the office was smashed.

"Glad to be back, folks, after breaking the record," Newcomb said. "Our motor worked perfectly to the end. It wore us out. Good night."

In front of Mitchell the "mike" was placed.

"Hello folks," came Mitchell's hoarse voice.

"Boys, you've done it," said a voice in the crowd and Otto Leisy, flight sponsor, forced his way to the flyers.

"Didn't I tell you we'd do it," Newcomb told Leisy. "We had hell Thursday night. That's what beat us, that storm."

Once again the flyers went back to their plane where they posed with their wives for cameramen.

Eddie Stinson, president of the Station Aircraft Corporation and builder of the plane in which the record was established, greeted them alongside the ship.

"Great work, boys; I'm proud of you both," he said through smiles.

After braving the crowd again to get to waiting automobiles the heroes were whisked away to their hotel for the night. There they bathed and retired, to drop into a sound sleep almost immediately.

The wives of the two men insisted that their record-breaking husbands be allowed to remain in absolute quiet for several hours.

The flight of Newcomb and Mitchell demonstrated one thing different from previous endurance ventures.

In both the Question Mark and Fort Worth flights man outdressed the machine. In this the "City of Cleveland" conquered man.

Both pilots declared they were completely exhausted by the flight. They said the machine was in perfect shape but they were too tired to go on.

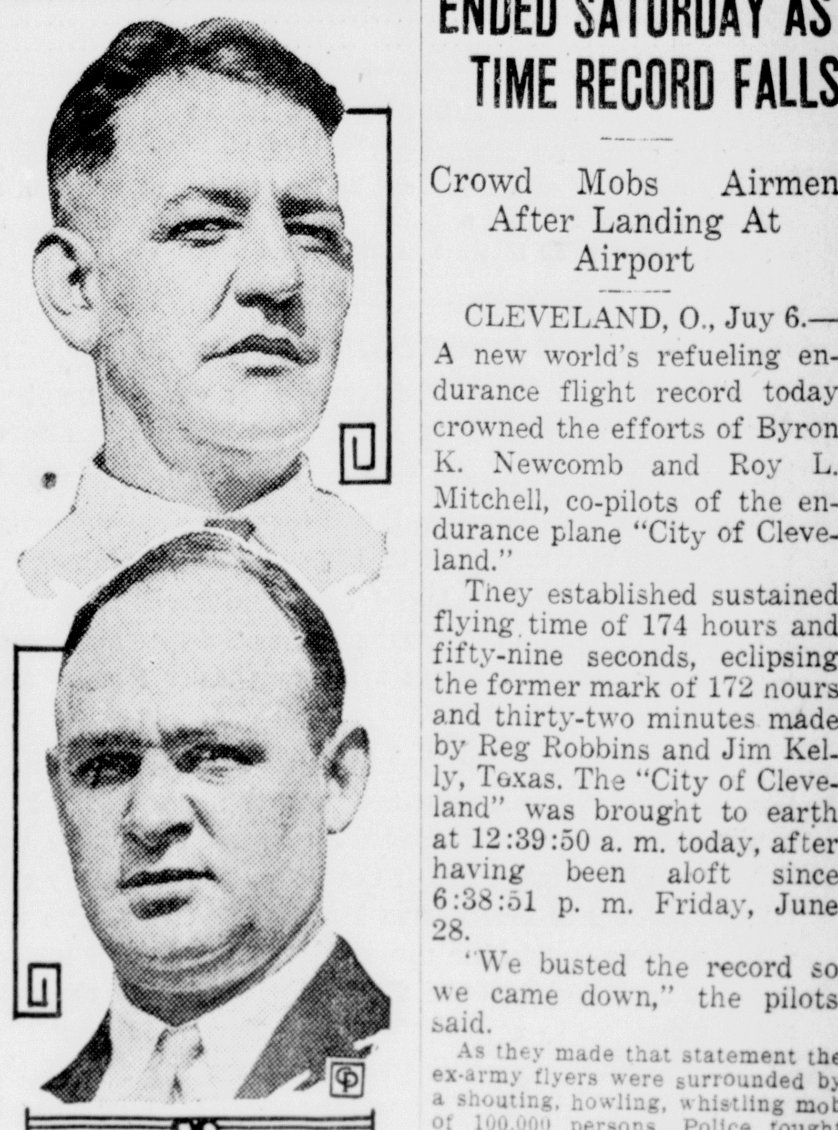

The storm of Thursday night sapped the last bit of strength the flyers had in them, Newcomb declared.

"It was hell," he said. "The rain beat down and lightning flashed. It was the worst flying weather I ever was in. God only knows where we were flying that night. Riding through that storm knocked the last bit of strength we had. We were soaking wet and cold next morning and flew all day yesterday on the last reserve we had."

The barograph recording the length of the flight was turned over to Floyd J. Logan, Ohio governor of the National Aeronautical Association, who will forward it to Washington for official recognition.

Logan complimented the flyers on their new record. He said: "I think this a splendid test of the ingenuity and ability of men in being able to weather storms though flying was considered practically impossible. This makes the record all the more impressive. It was a great test for the motor and the plane."

Plans of a public celebration Monday for the flyers will be discussed by the Cleveland Chapter of the National Aeronautical Association today.

Despite rainstorms and high winds, Byron K. Newcomb, top and Roy L. Mitchell, below, Cleveland flyers, brought their plane down after setting a new endurance flight record at Cleveland. They broke the Fort Worth record of Robbins and Kelly by a little more than two hours.

PREPARATIONS FOR OPENING AIR-RAIL SERVICE PROCEEDS

Pennsy Plane Line To Be Inaugurated Monday

COLUMBUS, O., July 6.—Aviation interest of the nation centered in Columbus today as preparations went forward for the inauguration of air-rail passenger service between New York and Los Angeles, with the new Columbus Airport as the first point of air transfer.

The service will be formally dedicated at 8:15 a. m. Monday when the trans-continental air transport plane, "City of Columbus," carrying passengers arriving on the Pennsylvania Railroad's "Airway Limited," hops off for Indianapolis.

As the ship soars into the air it will unveil a bronze tablet imbedded in stone, commemorating the first flight and the opening of the $80,000 airport.

Leaders in the comparative new air industry, railroad and motor magnates and men of prominence in industry and commerce will attend and participate in the dedication.

These will include Henry and Edsel Ford, W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad; Assistant Secretary of Navy David S. Ingalls; Major Clarence M. Young, assistant director of aeronautics in the department of commerce; Governor Myers V. Cooper, and General Dennis E. Nolan, commandant of the fifth corps area.

The dedicatory address will be delivered by Dr. W. O. Thompson, president emeritus of Ohio State University.

Preliminary exercises were held today.

PEERLESS SELECTS NEW PRESIDENT
CLEVELAND, O., July 6.—Selection of James A. Bohannon of Indianapolis as president of the Peerless Motor Car Corporation, to succeed Leon E. German, was announced here today.

Don P. Smith of Detroit will serve as vice president.

For the past seven years Bohannon has been connected with the Marmon Motor Company. He resigned as vice president to take the Peerless post.

The two new executives said there were no plans for merging Peerless with any other company and denied rumors that the plant would be moved from Cleveland.

MINISTER DEMANDS PROBE OF SHOOTING
ZANESVILLE, O., July 6.—The Rev. J. A. Hopkins, pastor of the Free Methodist Church, Kent, demanded an investigation today of the shooting of his son, Clarence, 21, who was killed here Thursday night while fleeing from police who were attempting to arrest him on a charge of driving a stolen automobile.

Rev. Hopkins declared the circumstances did not justify the shooting and said he would insist on a thorough inquiry.

CONVICT KILLED BY GUARDS IN ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE PRISON

Prisoner Shot In Fleeing From His Guards

OHIO STATE PENITENTIARY, Columbus, O., July 6.—William Perry, 38, Negro convict sent up from Cleveland, was shot and killed early today when he broke away from Night Captain Hall who was transferring him to solitary confinement.

The transfer was ordered after Perry created a disturbance in his cell. As the prisoner broke and ran several guards fired, wounding him fatally. He died a half hour later.

Perry was serving 10 to 25 years for robbery. Perry was, twenty years old. When he broke away Capt. Hall ordered him to halt. This attracted the guards, who fired into the air, then fired at the fleeing man.

Several bullets penetrated Perry's chest and arms and a stray bullet ripped through the coat of guard James R. Clark.

Perry was transferred to the penitentiary from the Mansfield reformatory on Jan. 22, 1929 when he became unmanageable.

The negro was sent up with Clarence Carter, also colored, after they pleaded guilty to robbing a man of $17.50. They were admitted to the reformatory March 3, 1926.

Perry tried to kill himself last month when he slashed his throat with a spike which he had flattened and sharpened, guards said.

When the lights were extinguished at 9 o'clock last night Perry refused to retire, Capt. Hall said. The negro then began pounding on the bars and other metal objects in the cell and other prisoners complained.

The transfer was then ordered.

QUESTION EIGHT IN DEATH OF JANITOR

COLUMBUS, O., July 6.—Eight Columbus hunters, including four Negroes, were questioned at Urbana today in connection with the death of Cunningham Ashenbush, 56, Ohio State University janitor who was shot Thursday while hunting ground hogs near Lewisburg. Ashenbush was killed by a stray rifle bullet. Those questioned were known to have been in the vicinity.

ACCUSED OF MURDER

STUEBENVILLE, O., July 6.—A charge of first degree murder was expected to be lodged today against Michael Trombetti, 33, a taxicab chauffeur who shot and killed his father-in-law, William Anderson, 51, while the two men were en route to a justice's office for hearing in connection with Trombetti's treatment of his wife, Anderson's daughter. ## DEATH TAKES TOLL DURING FLIGHT

CLEVELAND, O., July 6.—Death today took its toll in the endurance flight, but it took it from the ranks of the spectators.

Stephen Kusko, 16, was electrocuted while watching the fliers. It was reported that the boy was standing on top of a box car on the railroad tracks east of the airport and in some manner came in contact with a high voltage wire.

Scores of others were bruised and scratched in the jam that attended the landing of the fliers. William Kalvey, 11, was said to have suffered a crushed foot when he was trampled by the crowd.

RECORD BREAKERS HAPPY

Tired Endurance Flyers Play Like Kids As Relief Comes After Flight.

CLEVELAND, O., July 6.—The two happiest men in Cleveland—and probably the tireddest—looked at each other while a score of hands thumped their backs.

"Mitch, you big mutt, you need a shave," said Byron K. Newcomb, adding a big hand to the thumping.

BETTER PART OF VALOR
COLDWATER, Mich., July 6.—A Chicago-owned automobile went through Coldwater here enroute to Detroit with a sign front and rear which read "Don't shoot, we have no liquor."

KELLY COMPANY TO STOP MANUFACTURE OF CRANK SHAPERS
Manufacture of Kelly crank-shapers, known all over the world, which has constituted one of the chief products of the R. A. Kelly Co., local cordage factory, for the last thirty years, will be discontinued entirely about September 1, according to an announcement Saturday.

The company manufactures rope and binder twice at its main plant on W. Market St. and its machinery business has been conducted at a branch building on W. Main St.

A steadily decreasing demand for crank-shapers over the country is given by company officials as the major reason for the decision to withdraw from this manufacturing field when all present orders have been filled and machinery now in the process of manufacture has been disposed of.

Although the company will devote itself entirely to the manufacture of cordage, no definite decision has been reached on the question of enlarging the plant, increasing production or of what disposition will be made of the branch plant on Main St. It is declared.

At present twenty-nine men are employed in the machine shop, which is a two-story, frame structure containing 15,000 feet of floor space.

An effort will be made to make places for all employees of the machine shop, it is said, and the company plans to find employment for all of the older workers out of consideration for their length of service regardless of whether any of the plans work out satisfactorily.

SLAYS YOUNG WIFE AFTER ARGUMENT

JACKSON, Mich., July 6.—J. Howard Shorney, 24-year-old son of a minister who killed his young wife when she "dared" him to prove he was not the father of her unborn child, was arraigned here today on a first degree murder charge.

Shorney, in a written statement today, confessed beating his wife to death with a poker as they were preparing to start on a picnic with their fifteen-month-old son, on July 4.

Mrs. Shorney, 22, adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Cheney, admitted to her husband several weeks ago that he was not the father of her expected child, Shorney declared.

POSTPONE PLANNED FLIGHT TO ROME

OLD ORCHARD, Me., July 6.—The hop-off of the monoplane Pathfinder on its projected 4800-mile flight to Rome, scheduled for this morning, was postponed today because of the rough condition of the beach.

In announcing that they would not risk a take-off at this time, Pilot Roger Q. Williams and his navigator, Lewis A. Yancey, said there was a bare possibility that they might start late this afternoon.

FLYERS HURT WHEN PLANE IS CRASHED

TIFFIN, O., July 6.—Frank Kennedy, Toledo pilot, and Eugene Krutzman, a passenger, were injured here last night when a Tiffin Airport Company plane crashed into an electric transmission line while making a landing. The plane was demolished. Kennedy suffered several broken ribs and Krutzman was badly bruised.

INJURES INFANT

TOLEDO, O., July 6.—Police today were seeking an irate father who, becoming incensed with his wife, hurled their baby to the pavement and fled. The child was seriously injured.

BELIEVE TRIBUNE PLANE IS AWAITING BETTER WEATHER

OTTAWA, Ont., July 6.—Although radio information coming from the north has been meager and at times conflicting, the Chicago-to-Berlin amphibian plane "Untin" Bowler was believed to be waiting today at Great Whale, on the eastern shore of Hudson Bay, for a break in unfavorable weather conditions.

The next scheduled leg of the flight is Port Burwell, at the tip of Cape Chidley, 570 miles from Great Whale. From Port Burwell the "Untin" Bowler will take off on its first ocean jump, making for Mt. Evans, Greenland.

The government radio station at Port Burwell radioed yesterday that the amphibian was believed to have stopped at Great Whale because of fog and rain. It was reported the plane had gone on toward Port Burwell but this was not confirmed.

ENDURANCE FLYERS WIRE RESPECTS

CULVER CITY, Calif., July 6.—California's endurance fliers, Loren Mendell and Pete Reinhardt, were shooting at a new record today as they entered their fifth consecutive day in the air.

The pilots, as they passed over here last night, asked that their congratulations be wired to Byron K. Newcomb and Roy L. Mitchell who stayed aloft 174 hours, five minutes and fifty-nine seconds at Cleveland.

A tiny radio had brought them the news of the new record as officials of the Culver City airport were planning to send the word up via refueling plane.

ENDURANCE KINGS

Despite rainstorms and high winds, Byron K. Newcomb, top, and Roy L. Mitchell, below, Cleveland fliers, brought their plane down after setting a new endurance flight record at Cleveland. They broke the Fort Worth record of Robbins and Kelly by a little more than two hours.

PREPARATIONS FOR OPENING AIR-RAIL SERVICE PROCEEDS

Pennsy Plane Line To Be Inaugurated Monday

COLUMBUS, O., July 6.—Aviation interest of the nation centered in Columbus today as preparations went forward for the inauguration of air-rail passenger service between New York and Los Angeles, with the new Columbus Airport as the first point of air transfer.

The service will be formally dedicated at 8:15 a. m. Monday when the transcontinental air transport plane, "City of Columbus," carrying passengers arriving on the Pennsylvania Railroad's "Airway Limited," hops off for Indianapolis.

As the ship soars into the air it will unveil a bronze tablet imbedded in stone, commemorating the first flight and the opening of the $850,000 airport.

Leaders in the comparative new air industry, railroad and motor magnates and men of prominence in industry and commerce will attend and participate in the dedication.

These will include Henry and Edsel Ford, W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad; Assistant Secretary of Navy David S. Ingalls; Major Clarence M. Young, assistant director of aeronautics in the department of commerce; Governor Myers E. Nolan, commandant of the fifth corps area.

The dedicatory address will be delivered by Dr. W. O. Thompson, president emeritus of Ohio State University.

Preliminary exercises were held today.

PEERLESS SELECTS NEW PRESIDENT

CLEVELAND, O., July 6.—Selection of James A. Bohannon of Indianapolis as president of the Peerless Motor Car Corporation, to succeed Leon R. German, was announced here today.

Don P. Smith of Detroit will serve as vice president.

For the past seven years Bohannon has been connected with the Marmon Motor Company. He resigned as vice president to take the Peerless post.

The two new executives said there were no plans for merging Peerless with any other company and denied rumors that the plant would be moved from Cleveland.

MINISTER DEMANDS PROBE OF SHOOTING

ZANESVILLE, O., July 6.—The Rev. J. A. Hopkins, pastor of the Free Methodist Church, Kent, demanded an investigation today of the shooting of his son, Clarence, 21, who was killed here Thursday night while fleeing from police who were attempting to arrest him on a charge of driving a stolen automobile. Rev. Hopkins declared the circumstances did not justify the shooting and said he would insist on a thorough inquiry.

ENDED SATURDAY AS TIME RECORD FALLS

Crowd Mobs Airmen After Landing At Airport

CLEVELAND, O., July 6.—A new world's refueling endurance flight record today crowned the efforts of Byron K. Newcomb and Roy L. Mitchell, co-pilots of the endurance plane "City of Cleveland."

They established sustained flying time of 174 hours and fifty-nine seconds, eclipsing the former mark of 172 hours and thirty-two minutes made by Reg Robbins and Jim Kelly, Texas. The "City of Cleveland" was brought to earth at 12:39:50 a. m. today, after having been aloft since 6:38:51 p. m. Friday, June 28.

"We busted the record so we came down," the pilots said.

They made that statement the ex-army fliers were surrounded by a shouting, howling, whistling mob of 100,000 persons. Police fought the crowd back to enable the plane to taxi to the Stewart Aircraft Corporation hangar. It moved along slowly and souvenir hunters virtually stripped it of all fabric.

As the tired aviators stepped to the ground the crowd surged forward. The heroes were raised up on stalwart shoulders. Police cleared a way to the hangar entrance. Through it sped Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Newcomb.

"Billie!" shouted Newcomb, crushing his wife in his arms and smothering her with kisses.

Too hoarse to utter a sound, Mitchell just folded his wife to him and kissed her.

The wives were speechless. Tears of happiness streamed through their smiles.

Struggling with the crowd, the police escort literally dragged the fliers into the hangar and over to a small office crowded with well wishers. A score of people closed in to get a look at the record breakers and a closed window at the other end of the office was smashed.

"Glad to be back, folks, after breaking the record," Newcomb said. "Our motor worked perfectly to the end. It wore us out. Good night."

In front of Mitchell the "mike" was placed.

"Hello folks," came Mitchell's hoarse voice.

"Boys, you've done it," said a voice in the crowd and Otto Leisy, flight sponsor, forced his way to the fliers.

"Didn't I tell you we'd do it," Newcomb told Leisy. "We had hell Thursday night. That's what beat us, that storm."

Once again the fliers went back to their plane where they posed with their wives for cameramen.

Eddie Stinson, president of the Stinson Aircraft Corporation and builder of the plane in which the record was established, greeted them alongside the ship.

"Great work, boys, I'm proud of you both," he said with a rough smile.

After braving the crowd again to get to waiting automobiles the heroes were whisked away to their hotel for the night. There they bathed and retired, to drop into a sound sleep almost immediately.

The wives of the two men insisted that their record-breaking husbands be allowed to remain in absolute quiet for several hours.

The flight of Newcomb and Mitchell demonstrated one thing different from previous endurance ventures.

In both the Question Mark and Fort Worth flights man outdressed the machine. In this the "City of Cleveland" conquered man.

Both pilots declared they were completely exhausted by the flight. They said the machine was in perfect shape but they were too tired to go on.

The storm of Thursday night sapped the last bit of strength the fliers had in them, Newcomb declared.

"It was hell," he said. "The rain beat down and lightning flashed. It was the worst flying weather I ever was in. God only knows where we were flying that night. Riding through that storm knocked the last bit of strength we had. We were soaking wet and cold next morning and flew all day yesterday on the last reserve we had."

The barograph recording the length of the flight was turned over to Floyd J. Logan, Ohio governor of the National Aeronautical Association, who will forward it to Washington for official recognition.

Logan complimented the fliers on their new record. He said: "I think this a splendid test of the ingenuity and ability of men in being able to weather storms though flying was considered practically impossible. This makes the record all the more impressive. It was a great test for the motor and the plane."

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

THE LIGHT OF THE WORLD—Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on a hill cannot be hid. Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the house.—Matthew 5:14, 15.

REASONS FOR RECOGNIZING SOVIET

The announcement that the Labor government in Great Britain will shortly resume formal diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia was expected. The Labor party promised as much during the recent election campaign. The prompt fulfillment of this promise is explained by certain peculiar political and economic necessities under which Great Britain is laboring rather than by any love in London for Moscow. There is no sympathy lost between them.

The attitude of the Labor party toward communism was revealed when it read the communists out of its ranks. The Manchester Guardian Weekly recently published an abbreviated list of the epithets applied by communist leaders in Moscow to Mr. MacDonald whom they depict as a traitor to the proletariat. They regard his progressive socialism as even more dangerous and therefore more offensive to communism than they hold capitalism to be. They are also still smarting from the rebuff they received from him and other labor leaders now in his government, when they tried to use the general strike of 1926 as a lever with which to overthrow the existing form of government in Great Britain. The gesture with which Mr. MacDonald recognizes them might appropriately be to hold his nose, as Senator Copeland said he would do when he voted for the export debenture scheme.

What has worked for the recognition of the Soviets is necessity rather than inclination, a fact that makes clear that the action of the Labor government need not be looked to by the Moscow regime nor feared by Americans as a precedent for similar action by the United States or any other country. Great Britain comes into direct contact with Soviet Russia in Persia and along the Indian frontier; and it is also desperately in need of new markets for its industrial output, which it hopes to find in the Soviet republics as soon as normal relations are resumed. Our own relations with the Soviets are uninfluenced by such considerations. We are remote from them geographically and politically; and economically we could get along if we never sold them a dollar's worth of goods. As it happens they have been forced to come to us. We therefore haven't Great Britain's reasons for recognizing them; and we still have the reasons so forcefully stated by Secretary Hughes for not doing so. The Soviets must change before our attitude toward them does.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK—Morris Gest's recent Passion Play fiasco netted a $250,000 loss—obligation, not cash—and in no way furthered the prestige of Dave Belasco's son-in-law.

Twenty-three years ago Morris Gest was a ticket speculator outside the Hippodrome. A lot of people had the idea—and Morris had nothing to disabuse them—that he brought the Passion Play to the United States. As a matter of fact he came across the Fasnacht Family playing it in the middle west, and thought it might be a good idea to try to cash in on it in the metropolis.

The Freiburg Passion Play that Gest handled must not be confused with the production given at Oberammergau. They're two different outfits. The Fasnacht Family has been doing the play in Freiburg since 1600.

Adolph Fasnacht, who plays Christus, is a German gentleman, lovable and benign, to whom the others in the cast look for counsel and guidance. The town of Freiburg had become impoverished in the war, and the Passion Players came to the United States with the idea of repairing their shattered finances.

The first two weeks Gest paid Adolph nothing and the third week proffered him a check for $5,000. Adolph, whose education during his brief stay in America had become "liberal," refused the check and insisted on cash. Gest became furious but the players wouldn't go on until Adolph's demands were acceded to.

Friday of the closing week in New York Gest handed Adolph another check, this one for $3,000. With the end of the play one day distant, the Fasnachts realized it would be futile to strike for cash. Adolph went down with nervous prostration and finished the engagement at the Hippodrome under a doctor's care.

A LETTER
"I should like to rise in defense of the city oft reputed to be the wickedest in the world. That charge manifestly grew out of the nimble brain of some advertising man, and he does Greater New York an injustice. In reality, New York's chief claim to fame is that it is the dumbest city in the world—dumb in the good old misused sense of its citizenry lacking intellect.

"On a recent brief excursion around the metropolis, my first visit, and, God willing, my last, I was impressed with more exhibits of yokelery between 42nd and 52nd streets than I had seen in 25 years of habitude on Main street, Greenville, Pa. If any of my townsmen acted like a score or more alleged members of the human race I noted on Broadway, they would be placed promptly under surveillance by the local police force.

"Among other things, I was caught by a sudden rainstorm in the entrance of a Madison Avenue building, along with a score or more city residents. Scraps of conversation which came to my ears unsolicited, revealed an average intelligence and brilliance far below that which might be heard down at Aleck's corner drug store. There were just as many grammatical errors and inane bon mots per cubic foot of conversation as I ever heard exchanged around the Leeches Corners general store.

Walking along Broadway, near 43rd street, at the pre-theatre hour one evening, an automobile struck a sharp declivity in the asphalt bordering a surface car rack. The result was a rattled down at Aleck's corner drug store. There were just as many grammatical errors and inane bon mots per cubic foot of conversation as I ever heard exchanged around the Leeches Corners general store.

"Maybe I didn't give New York a fair trial. I'll admit I met some very nice people, but strangely enough they were all ex-residents of small towns, just dying to get back to them. They maintain they stay in New York merely to earn a living and instead get only an existence."

AS TO EDUCATION AGAIN

When Everett Dean Martin says that "education is a spiritual revaluation of life," he tells it all. Education enables a man to take a "richer and more significant view of his experiences."

Education involves far more than the accumulation of facts. It involves a growing understanding of what life is all about. Of course we never learn quite that much. But education does provide the capacity for thinking about such things.

A JOB

This same Everett Dean Martin says that perhaps at no time since the thirteenth century has the desire for knowledge so nearly approached a mass movement as it has today. That lays a tremendous responsibility on the institutions of learning. And their chief function is not so much to impart knowledge as to start a life-long habit of self-education. Ernest Hatch Wilkins, president of Oberlin college, calls this—the establishment of a life-long habit of self-education—one of the foremost purposes of the modern college. Too bad the habit can't be formed more commonly in high schools. The high school brain is capable of the development of that habit, but the average teacher doesn't know how to make self-education sufficiently alluring.

THE REAL UPLIFT

Always much talk about the uplift. "The word, of which almost everybody is tired, generally refers to social settlement work, messing around in the kitchens and back yards of the poor, operating practical and snappy soup lines, etc. The only lifting that has permanent value is the lifting of men's thoughts above the drudgery of their days, pushing out their restricted horizons and setting their eyes upon new hills and mountains beyond their routine ken. That is the true uplift."

HOPING TO DO

Most of us say: "I hope to do so-and-so." Here and there one says: "I have done so-and-so." The "hope-to-doers" furnish a sleepy audience for the doer.

RESULT OF EXTRA CONGRESSIONAL SESSION DECLARED DISAPPOINTING

By SAM RAYBURN
Congressman from Texas
Sam Rayburn was born in Roane county, Tennessee, Jan. 6, 1882. He attended East Texas college and the University of Texas. He began his law practice at Bonham, Tex. For six years he was a member of the Texas house of representatives, and speaker of the last two years. Elected to congress in 1913, from the fourth Texas district, he has been returned each term since. He is a Democrat.

The results of the extra session of congress are, in my judgment more disappointing to the people of the country than any ever assembled. It is true a so-called farm bill was passed. I voted for it, as it was all in the way of farm relief allowed by those in power. I feel that it is certain that in results to the farmers it will be as disappointing and give as little relief as any piece of legislation ever passed which had for its announced purpose the relief of any class.

A tariff bill has passed the house and is now pending in the senate which gives protection to some products of the farm and ranch, but on the other hand, piles higher and higher the duties, and therefore makes much higher the prices that the farmer will have to pay for every implement and every piece of hardware and every piece of clothing that he has to buy. As an example, a 10 per cent duty was put upon hides and a 20 per cent duty on shoes.

Few farmers have cowhides to sell, but all must buy shoes. For the average farmer there will be no hide to sell, therefore no money from that source, but many pairs of shoes in the course of the year must be bought for every family, and it may be a conservative estimate it will cost every family $5 to $20 each year from the tariff that has been put upon shoes. Another example—an additional protective duty has been placed on sugar that the American consumer in the neighborhood of $300,000,000.

When the regular session of congress convenes the committee on interstate and foreign commerce, of which I am a member, will have some great questions before it. A bill for further authorization of consolidation of railroads has been introduced and will be brought up early. A measure to control interstate traffic in buses and trucks must be considered. The Interstate Commerce commission is in its far-reaching decisions by interpretation has, in my judgment, unjustifiably subverted congressional intent as written in the transportation act of 1920 and amendments thereto. The courts of the country, and especially the supreme court of the United States, in the O'Fallon decision has made necessary, in my opinion, the revamping of the valuation section of the interstate-commerce act.

ANOTHER PROBLEM IN RELATIVITY!

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

The late afternoon is an ideal time for a restful beauty treatment. It is the time when one's mental and physical vitality is quite likely to be at low ebb. The energy of the morning has been spent. The excitement and activity of the evening has not begun.

Even if the treatment is the simplest and shortest of procedures—and it can be so—and still be most effective—you need to take a few minutes out of the 1,440 that make up a day, to rest and refresh yourself. And you know, if you are of feminine gender, that nothing is more restful or refreshing than a beauty treatment. If you can look into your mirror and see a bright, untired looking face, you feel fresher and more rested all over, however tired you may be. Feminine psychology on this point is solidly grounded.

Your beauty treatment need not be elaborate. It can be of the shortest. Just a warm bath and a nap—or a few moments of absolute relaxation (with a little cleansing or nourishing cream spread over your face), and a swift patting of skin tone to refresh your skin, will do wonders for your good looks and your peace of mind.

When you do not have time to sleep, or when your mental state makes it impossible, at least take a moment to blank your mind, or change your trend of thought. Drop down on your bed or sink back in your chair. Let every bone in your body find its most easy position. Release all nervous or muscular tension and let your mind wander toward pleasant things. If possible, cease thinking entirely. See velvety darkness behind your closed eyelids, and let your mind dwell in it utterly. Whether you realize it or not, your mental condition—awake or asleep—has much to do with your physical state of well being and with your good looks.

Then take your quick beauty treatment—cleansing, clear and tone your skin and make up with your favorite cosmetics.

Behind the Scenes In Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—"Besides brains, it takes nerve to make a successful president," said Senator Burton K. Wheeler, of Montana.

The Butte lawmaker was philosophizing relative to the narrow squeaks and actual defeats President Hoover has experienced in a senate which every politician had supposed certain to give him safe majorities on all questions he might express a preference in.

"The politicians," added the Montana legislator, "were right, too—as to the senate. They were mistaken concerning the president."

"As a member of the committee on agriculture, having no farm relief plan of my own, I was ready," continued the senator, "to accept the president's. I took it for granted that he had one. I thought he made it plain enough during the campaign that he had.

"However, we were doubtful of his position on the debenture suggestion. We sent a sub-committee to him to inquire. Returning, it reported that he had no especial program—did not consider it his function, as chief executive, to initiate legislation—we must put our debenture query up to the agriculture department's experts."

"We did. They indorsed the plan. We put it into the bill.

"Not until then did the president declare his opposition to it, and give his reasons—which seemed to me inconclusive.

"By that time more than half the senators were committed to the proposition, on which they evidently felt that the president had dodged responsibility too long to justify them in changing; so they voted for it.

"He could readily have prevented them from doing so—and avoided a senate defeat for himself—by answering, 'No,' when we asked our question."

"The White House did recommend repeal of the national origins law, but with no vigor.

"Repeal would have been assured if the president had made it an issue.

"He allowed opposition to his weakly-worded request to take its course—and was beaten again."

"It is impossible not to believe that he favored the Borah resolution, intended to limit tariff increases to farm products. As it was, it was defeated by only one vote. The president could have had several more, and passed it, that easily—the senator snapped his fingers; not energetically, either.

"Everything in his attitude," proceeded the Montana solon, "indicates perfect realization of the unwisdom of a general tariff boost at a juncture when the development of our export trade obviously is so vital to us.

"Nevertheless our high tariff element continues to insist that, in reality, the president is wholeheartedly for its program of a stiff, wide-spread advance in our industrial, as well as agricultural rates—and he says nothing to discount these arguments."

"Possibly the senate will scale down some of the representatives' highest industrial tariff figures. It may do its best to help the president in spite of his reticence.

"But even so, there will have to be a conference over the bill then, between the senate and the representatives; and the conference committee will write into the measure whatever rates it chooses."

Today's Recipes

Coffee Cake—Three-fourths cup sugar, two cups flour, six teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt, one beaten egg, one cup milk, four tablespoons melted butter. Sift dry ingredients and add others. To make crumbs for the top, mix two tablespoons sugar and half a cup of flour, also one teaspoon cinnamon, and put on top. Bake twenty minutes in a hot oven.

Welsh Rarebit—One-half pound American cheese grated, one tablespoon butter, one-half cup milk, one egg, salt, mustard, red pepper. Worcestershire sauce. Melt butter in top of double boiler. Add cheese and stir until thoroughly dissolved, then gradually add milk. While butter is melting beat egg and add other ingredients to egg. Mix well and add at the last. When heated pour over toast or crackers. Fresh cheese is more apt to go stringy, so use brick or package cheese. This makes enough for two or three.

Beet and Horseradish Relish
One cup chopped beets, one cup chopped cabbage, two tablespoons horseradish, or more. Add just enough vinegar to mix. Add a little salt, and sugar to taste.

Suggestions

Mock Fried Oysters
Now that the letter "R" has disappeared from the months on the calendar and the oyster, accordingly is excluded from the diet, the housewife might like to spring this camouflage on the family.

Take a can of sweet corn and add three well beaten eggs, one-half teaspoonful of salt and a dash of pepper. Mix thoroughly then add sufficient cracker rolled fine (or cracker meal) to make it thick enough to form into cakes about the size of a large oyster. Fry until brown on both sides—some cooks prefer and fry the oysters in this fat, which gives them a delicious flavor.

You can mend kid gloves neatly and effectively by making a close buttonhole stitch around edge of tear, then sewing the buttonholes together—use a fine needle with a sharp point.

Diet and Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.
Author of "Diet and Health" and "Diet for Children"

For Men Only

One of my male correspondents accused me of writing too exclusively for women. It is true that most of my answers are addressed to women, because most of my letters come from women; but practically all of the subjects I write on are applicable to the sterner sex, as well. However, recently I wrote on something specifically for men (extra heavy beards), and today I am going to take up Mr. C's complaint—Barber's Itch.

Barber's Itch is most frequently contracted in barber shops where the laws of sanitation are neglected. It is very contagious, so one suffering from it should not go to a barber shop during the infection and should be extremely careful about allowing others to use any of his toilet articles. Of course, a man who is unfortunate enough to contract Barber's Itch should go to a skin specialist, if he can. I realize that some of you cannot do this, so I will tell you briefly what stell-wagon has to say on the subject:

Barber's Itch (tinea sycosis) is really ringworm of the bearded region. It is due to different types of fungi, with a resounding family name of trichophytosis. There are two general types, one which remains superficial and the other a deep-seated or nodular form.

Barber's Itch usually begins and extends in the same manner as ringworm on non-hairy parts, and this is familiar to all of you. The nodular form is the most severe type, extending down into the tissues and forming little inflammatory nodules, which may break down and discharge.

The treatment is mostly external, but if the patients are anemic and undernourished (or over nourished), all the measures to build up normal health will aid. There is no doubt that unbalanced diets lower the disease resisting forces of the blood and tissue fluids so they are not able to cope with infections of all sorts.

The face must be washed with hot water and soap and the hairs in the infected region pulled out, and the rest of the bearded region can be shaved to permit easy inspection. The medications are:

Sodium hyposulphite, 1 dram to the ounce, and an ointment of precipitated sulphur of from 10 to 20 percent strength. The lotion is thoroughly dabbed over the affected region and less liberally over the rest of the bearded region. After the lotion has dried, the ointment has to be well rubbed in. The applications should be made morning and evening, and in urgent cases three or four times daily. Even after it is cured, the medication should be applied every once in a while, perhaps for months.

Since Stellwagon wrote his book, the ultra-violet ray and radiant heat from the therapeutic electric lights have been used with great deal in infections, and probably if you get one of the small therapeutic lamps and take a treatment of one-half or one hour a day, with this, it would undoubtedly help. Use this after the washing and before the application of the medicine.

We have an article on Balanced Diet which you may have by following column rules.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"When a new idea gets into an unfurnished mind," once said a learned man, "it has the time of its life. There is nothing to oppose its autocratic rule."

I suppose that is the reason people become monomaniacs and fadists. Getting into an empty head the one idea rules it completely.

"And the moral of that is," as Alice in Wonderland's duchess would say, that one should keep one's mind filled with useful information and interesting thoughts so that fads and fancies will not get too great a foothold thereon and unbalance one.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: Just a newly engaged man. The young lady permitted her old sweetheart to pay her a week-end visit. Never informed me of same until my recent visit to their home at the lake. Perhaps I misunderstood this situation. Do you suppose this girl would make a good wife? I informed her that it would not please me to very great extent if this young man paid her a visit. Do you think I am selfish? Please give me your frank opinion on said matter."

It depends, K. If the other chap was an old friend of the family it might have been almost impossible, without being rude, to prevent him from making the visit. I think it would have been much wiser and franker to have told about his visit and explained the matter to you, having you also as a guest if possible.

It should not relish the idea of a former sweetheart visiting your fiancée. If she is in the habit of deceiving you she would not make such a good wife, I should say, but maybe she did not.

If you were so jealous that you unreasonably resented, even her casual friendships with others and made her miserable by your actions, you would be selfish, but you could hardly be expected to cheer under the circumstances. I am sure she would not feel delighted if you went to spend a week-end with a former sweetie.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am a girl in my teens. I am still going to high school. I have no friends except a few girls. It seems that every one seems to avoid me, although I cannot see why. This may be my imagination, but it seems that way sometimes.

"I am the only girl at home. Some people tell me I am pretty. I have plenty of nice, pretty clothes; sometimes, I guess, more than I really need. I try to be jolly, but it seems it never does any good. Often I have cried because I new seem to be liked by anybody, although I have tried so hard to gain friendship.

"GIRL WITHOUT FRIENDS."

I think your idea that people are you is imagination, dear. You are over sensitive. Suppose instead of trying to gain friends for yourself you try to be a friend to someone who hasn't many. In other words, try to forget yourself and think of others. Many who are apparently happy and carefree need a good friend. Look about you and see if you can't interest yourself in such a one.

M. K.: Sorry I can't help you. You are young and don't need to be anxious yet awhile.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am 24 years old and am not popular with either sex. One reason, I think, I have never been able to mix with them, due to my environment and, of late, my health. I am also quite kiddish, which I wish I could overcome."

"I accepted an old man's attentions because I was very lonely. Will this spoil my reputation? He is divorced. He seems very much in love with me. Is that possible? How can I quit him without offending him? I am very fond of him. He is my best friend. I can go to him with my troubles and he will understand. CHILD."

There is no harm in your making a friend of this older man if he understands that it is merely friendship you feel for him. It is quite possible he loves you. Why try to change your "kiddishness" if it is natural for you? Interest yourself in young people as you meet them and forget your own woes, and I think: you'll have no trouble in making friends. There is no reason for your reputation to suffer because of your friendship if the man is respectable.

MISS B.: I do not know the name of the person you ask about. I don't save names and addresses even when I have them, which is seldom.

Peter's Adventures

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

THROUGH THE HOLE IN THE HILL

Peter, being a boy, could not forget as quickly as the insect folk, and, thinking of all that he had seen and heard while in the Spider web he walked on and on. When at last he did "come to" and realize where he was going he found himself at the very foot of what appeared to him like a mountain. He stood stock still and looked about him. But he couldn't get his bearings.

"I believe I have lost my way," said Peter, to himself, his heart turning upside down at the discovery. "I am sure I am nowhere near home for this seems to be a hill very much higher than the hill behind our house and I can't remember any other hill nearby us. Or I may be mistaken. This may be it. Seems mighty steep but perhaps if I climb to the top of it I can find out where I am. I can't see a blessed thing down here in the grass."

Steep the hill certainly was, and the road was rough as Peter, to his sorrow, found out when he started to climb. His feet wouldn't serve him as they should, at all, and the boy actually had to take to his knees and crawl. He had gone only a short distance when he felt the ground giving beneath him. Peter supposed he was tumbling back to the foot of the mountain. Instead he crashed through what must have been a hole in the mountain's side. Down, down, down, dropped Peter until at last a bit dizzy but with no bones broken the boy landed on a soft bed of dry leaves that cracked as he dropped upon them.

It was dark as night and until Peter's eyes had become accustomed to the darkness, he didn't dare move for fear of falling farther. Suddenly Peter became aware of a sharp pain in his leg. When he reached down to rub the aching spot he found something had moved the skin and was still sticking there. Peter pulled it out, and held it up before his eyes in the dim light to which gradually he was becoming used to. "A splinter!" gasped he. "Where in the world did I get that? I must have hit wood, somewhere. Where am I, anyway? And how am I going to get out of here? What's that noise I hear? It sounds like Uncle Ned's sawmill!"

Grandmother's Bathing-Suit Barred As Peril to Feminine Swimmer

On the left we see a 1929 bathing suit that is the essence of comfort and well safety. Above, are four of the cute little tricks that this season has brought. They not only invite an inexpensive Palm Beach tan but are absolutely guaranteed to aid in combating those nasty big breakers that a girl is up against.

Lifeguard Recommends One-Piece Bathing Suit for Comfort and Safety

IN DIRECT contradiction to the usual modern editing, the old-fashioned bathing suit of knee and elbow length flannel, with pantalette bloomers, was barred for the season from the Wildwood Gables bathing beach of Wildwood, N. J., by a ruling of the captain of the life guards there.

BRIDGE WIDOWER GRANTED DIVORCE

CHICAGO, July 6.—James Breen, "bridge widower," is the "world's most patient husband," Judge William N. Gemmill believes.

"My wife is bridge crazy," said James when Mrs. Marie Breen demanded a divorce. "In the seven years we were married, we separated eleven times—always over a bridge argument."

"I had to mind our two children every night while she played. To make matters worse, her partner, Mrs. Jeannette Pond, finally brought over her two youngsters and I had to look after them, too. Both women stayed out until 4 and 5 in the morning. When I protested, my wife told me I was only a husband, but that bridge was bridge."

"Enough," declared the court. "I wish I could give you a medal as the world's most patient husband."

Mrs. Breen must do without her alimony.

YOUTH TIRED OF SCHOOL; SETS FIRE

BELEVEDERE GARDENS, Cal., July 6.—Nine months of reading, writing and "rhythmic" were enough for ten-year-old Morrell Pihman. When his teacher told him he would have to attend summer classes, he set fire to the school-house.

Then he turned in the alarm. Firemen arrived to find Morrell running about the blazing building shouting, "Fire."

A fire captain, obtained the admission that Morrell, in the hope of dodging summer school, had climbed into the attic and touched off some old papers. Morrell was turned over to his parents.

The schoolhouse was only slightly damaged and will be repaired in time for the summer sessions. Morrell's dad says he will see that his son is on hand when the first bell rings.

PRIEST DIES FROM AUTO CRASH HURTS

Mrs. James Hackett of Cincinnati, has returned home after a very pleasant visit with her cousin, Mrs. C. L. Edwards, Jasper Ave. Mrs. Hackett visited also.

Miss Fassetts, a street car conductor out of a ride to a friend's house and reported the theft.

"The bandits said I was in the 'badlands' now and I believe it," Miss Fassetts commented.

FARMLAND FLOODED NEAR OHIO VILLAGE

NAPOLÉON, O., July 6.—One of the worst floods in the history of this section was subsiding today after inundating valuable farm lands in Marion Township and flooding the village of Ambler.

Ambler was entirely under water for a time and residents were forced to seek refuge in the upper floors or on the roofs of their homes.

Thousands of chickens were drowned.

Four hundred acres were flooded in Marion Township.

CHARLES DORHN DIES AT INFIRMARY

Charles Dorhn, 70, died at the Greene County Infirmary at 10:10 Saturday morning as the result of complications.

Mr. Dorhn had been an inmate of the infirmary for the past five years.

He is survived by one brother, Edwin, of Dayton and three children, two daughters and a son who is in Missouri.

Funeral services are not complete and will be announced later.

SEVEN SCOUTS WILL VISIT CAMP MIAMI AT YELLOW SPRINGS

Seven Xenia Boy Scouts will leave Monday to attend Camp Miami, near Yellow Springs, official Scout camp of Tecumseh Area, where they will be encamped for from two to six weeks.

The camp officially opens Monday and eighty-four Scouts are enrolled for the first period. The camp ends August 15.

Xenia Scouts who will attend the first period are Lester Price, Charles Bone, Ralph Suesse, Hall McElree, Lewis Campbell, Robert Friedman and Robert Foley.

Announcement is being made that a newly-constructed dam is being placed in operation this summer, providing both swimming and boating facilities for the boys. Two new piers have been built, giving boat installed and there will be classes in life-saving.

CADETS AT CAMP ARE NOW NON-COMS

Twelve cadets of the O. S. and S. O. Home, who are enrolled at the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Fort Thomas, Ky., for the thirty-day training period, were immediately made non-commissioned officers upon their arrival last Monday, according to word received by Col. C. V. Burton, home superintendent.

Competition among the boys at camp is growing keen, according to Superintendent Burton, who declared that only four commissions in the cadet battalion will be filled this fall and that the positions will go to the four boys who make the best showing at camp this summer.

Grandmother's Bathing-Suit Barred As Peril to Feminine Swimmer

On the left we see a 1929 bathing suit that is the essence of comfort and, well, safety. Above, are four of the cute little tricks that this season has brought. They not only invite an inexpensive Palm Beach tan but are absolutely guaranteed to aid in combating those nasty big breakers that a girl is up against.

On the right is a gorgeous museum piece, the kind that grandma used to wear. Note the daring striped stockings. Below are two naughty girls in bathing suits that were considered very, very daring in years past, as witness their half-uncovered legs. Whoops!

(International Newsweek)

Lifeguard Recommends One-Piece Bathing Suit for Comfort and Safety

IN DIRECT contradiction to the usual modern edict, the old-fashioned bathing suit of knee and elbow length flannel, with pantalette bloomers, was barred for the season from the Wildwood Gables bathing beach of Wildwood, N. J., by a ruling of the captain of the life guards there.

Captain Dykes said he had nothing against the vintage of 1890 bathing suits, except that they hinder swimming and make it dangerous for the wearer to go into the surf.

He is also forbidding the old-fashioned straw hats, fastened under the chin with tape, now used chiefly to protect horses from the hot sun, because they prevent the swimmer from realizing when she is getting out too far.

Of course, the Captain didn't go into the subject of what would be barred in the way of the 1929 fashion, but here's hoping our young friends won't carry his instructions so far as to go to the other extreme. Take the backless suit, for instance.

Or leave it—just as you choose. But whichever way you look at it it's the very latest in swimming suits, and you'll certainly have to admit that it doesn't hinder the wearer in the surf.

Up to this time the backless nifties have only been exhibited at the exclusive beaches and worn by only those who can afford to swim in the winter time, at the Florida beaches, the Lido, and on California sands. But now that swimming time is near at hand and the public beaches are opening to the common folk, it'll probably just be a question of time before the Vice Squad casts its pure but all-seeing eye on the uncovered expanses, and, after that, who knows?

BRIDGE WIDOWER GRANTED DIVORCE

CHICAGO, July 6.—James Breen, "bridge widower," is the "world's most patient husband," Judge William N. Gemmill believes.

"My wife is bridge crazy," said James when Mrs. Marie Breen demanded alimony. "In the seven years we were married, we separated eleven times—always over a bridge argument."

"I had to mind our two children every night while she played. To make matters worse, her partner, Mrs. Jeannette Pond, finally brought over her two youngsters and I had to look after them, too. Both women stayed out until 4 and 5 in the morning. When I protested, my wife told me I was only a husband, but that bridge was bridge."

"Enough," declared the court, "I wish I could give you a medal as the world's most patient husband."

Mrs. Breen must do without her alimony.

YOUTH TIRED OF SCHOOL; SETS FIRE

BELEVEDERE GARDENS, Cal., July 6.—Nine months of reading, writing and "rhythmic" were enough for ten-year-old Morrell Pileman. When his teacher told him he would have to attend summer classes, he set fire to the schoolhouse.

Then he turned in the alarm. Firemen arrived to find Morrell running about the blazing building shouting, "fire."

A fire captain, obtained the admission that Morrell, in the hope of dodging summer school, had climbed into the attic and touched off some old papers. Morrell was turned over to his parents.

The schoolhouse was only slightly damaged and will be repaired in time for the summer sessions. Morrell's dad says he will see that his son is on hand when the first bell rings.

PRIEST DIES FROM AUTO CRASH HURTS

DAYTON, O., July 6.—The Rev. Charles L. Tresny, 50, pastor of St. Procopius Catholic Church at New Salem, Pa., died here today from injuries received last Tuesday in an automobile collision.

Father Tresny was en route to St. Louis to visit his mother when the accident occurred.

Mathew Yanoske, student of St. Vincent's College near New Salem, was acting as Father Tresny's chauffeur. He was seriously injured.

Comes to Lynn
The Marchioness of Townshend comes all the way from King's Lynn, England, where she's mayor, to attend the 300th anniversary of the founding of Lynn, Mass., by her relatives.

Charles Dornh, 70, died at the Greene County Infirmary at 10:10 Saturday morning as the result of complications.

FOUR ESCAPE FROM HILLSDALE PRISON

HILLSDALE, Mich., July 6.—Four prisoners escaped from the Hillsdale County Jail here early today after cutting a hole through a brick wall.

The fugitives are Frank Gordon, formerly of Toledo and Toronto; George Wright, Allen, Mich.; Ray Bateson, Hillsdale, and Jack Vetter, Reading, awaiting trial on a charge of embezzlement.

The quartet used an ordinary table knife and wire to cut a hole through the four thicknesses of brick in the jail wall.

OHIO GIRL LEARNS SHE'S IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, July 6.—"You're in Chicago now," four bandits greeted Miss May Fassett, Findlay, O., as she drove into the outskirts of the city early today to visit a friend over the week-end.

The quartet forced her to drive to a prairie and took $5, her suitcase containing her party dresses and bathing suit and her automobile.

Miss Fassett talked a street car conductor out of a ride to a friend's house and reported the theft. "The bandits said I was in the 'badlands' now and I believe it," Miss Fassett commented.

FARMLAND FLOODED NEAR OHIO VILLAGE

NAPOLÉON, O., July 6.—One of the worst floods in the history of this section was subsiding today after inundating valuable farm lands in Marion Township and flooding the village of Ambler.

Ambler was entirely under water for a time and residents were forced to seek refuge in the upper floors or on the roofs of their homes.

Thousands of chickens were drowned.

Four hundred acres were flooded in Marion Township.

SEVEN SCOUTS WILL VISIT CAMP MIAMI AT YELLOW SPRINGS

Seven Xenia Boy Scouts will leave Monday to attend Camp Miami, near Yellow Springs, official Scout camp of Tecumseh Area, where they will be encamped for from two to six weeks.

The camp officially opens Monday and eighty-four Scouts are enrolled for the first period. The camp ends August 19.

Xenia Scouts who will attend the first period are Lester Price, Charles Bone, Ralph Suesse, Hall McElree, Lewis Campbell, Robert Friedman and Robert Foley.

Announcement is being made that a newly-constructed dam is being placed in operation this summer, providing both swimming and boating facilities for the boys. Two new piers have been built, giving board installed and there will be classes in life-saving.

CADETS AT CAMP ARE NOW NON-COMS

Twelve cadets of the O. S. and S. O. Home, who are enrolled at the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Port Thomas, Ky., for the thirty-day training period, were immediately made non-commissioned officers upon their arrival last Monday, according to word received by Col. C. V. Burton, home superintendent.

Competition among the boys at camp is growing keen, according to Superintendent Burton, who declared that only four commissions in the cadet battalion will be filled this fall and that the positions will go to the four boys who make the best showing at camp this summer.

CEDARVILLE GETS ESTIMATE OF WATER WORKS PLANT COST

Cost of installing a waterworks plant complete at Cedarville is conservatively estimated at $55,000 in a report submitted by Collins Wright, Dayton engineer, employed by the village council to make a survey and estimate of the probable expense of such a system. It had been feared that the cost of installing a waterworks system might be prohibitive because of an unusual soil formation in certain parts of the town where rock comes to within a foot of the surface.

The cost estimate includes a water supply for domestic use as well as fire protection for the entire village.

In his report the engineer took into consideration several sites under consideration where a water supply might be available but made no recommendation of any particular site because the state board of health must first pass upon the selection. Test wells must also be drilled and a suggested site might not have the advantage of a good water supply. Engineer Wright based his cost estimate on plant operation on the probability half of the homes in Cedarville would use water at an average of $10 a year, giving the plant an income of $1,500 annually without taking into consideration water used by industrial plants or schools.

It is pointed out that the net revenue of the plant could be used to pay part of the cost of installation and make unnecessary any tax burden. The Yellow Springs plant, although only installed a year ago, is being operated at a profit, it is said. Residents and business men of that village likewise received a substantial reduction in their insurance rates, which eventually would more than counter-balance the cost of plant installation.

The village council approved the report of the engineer and the next step expected to be taken by the council and citizens is to obtain the views of a representative of the state department of health.

MRS. ANNE WATSON REMOVED BY DEATH SATURDAY MORNING

Mrs. Annie Watson, 80, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Alice Robinson, Upper Bellbrook Pike, at 4:50 o'clock Saturday morning as the result of a fatal cancer. She had been in failing health for the last two years and was bedfast for the past three months.

She was born April 11, 1849 near Lumberton and has spent most of her life in Greene County. She made her home with her daughter for the last seven years.

Mrs. Watson is survived by four children: Mrs. Robinson, at whose home she passed away, Mrs. Mary Kennedy, Dayton, Mrs. Sarah Bolen, Jamestown, and Mrs. Jennie Lersch, Elvira, and two great-grandchildren. One brother, William Downey, and one sister, Mrs. Clinton Hook of Xenia also survive. Five children and her husband preceded her in death.

Funeral services will be held at the home of Mrs. Robinson Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with burial in Woodland Cemetery. Friends may call at the residence after 2 o'clock Sunday.

Mrs. Stephen Powers who has been in poor health the past three weeks is improving at this writing. The Dover W. C. T. U. was delightfully entertained at the beautiful country home of Mrs. Orville Ellis Tuesday afternoon. Those attending from this place were: Mrs. Frank Howell, Mrs. Veturah Linkhart, Mrs. O. W. Linkhart, Mrs. James Crawford and Joe and Dorothy Jean Crawford and Miss Nora Linkhart.

Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Linkhart entertained at their home Sunday with a family dinner. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Alex Linkhart of Salem, and Mrs. Orlando Linkhart of Washington, C. H. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Speer and daughter Betty Mae.

Mr. Mahlon and Mary Ann McPherson spent Saturday with her daughter, Mrs. Alva Keiter and family.

Miss Fairy Christie of Dayton, spent the week-end with her mother, Mrs. T. D. Christie.

Miss Rozella Wolary, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Burch Pierson, returned home Wednesday.

PARDONS TO THREE

COLUMBUS, O., July 6.—Governor Myers V. Cooper has pardoned three men serving sentences for liquor law violations and has commuted the sentences of seven state penitentiary convicts. Those pardoned included James Cardillo, serving out an $500 fine in the Lorain County Jail, and John Nickels and William Spencer, serving liquor sentences in the Stark County Workhouse.

BETTER LIGHTS

WORKS PLANT COST

No longer will clerks and carriers strain their eyes while handling letters and packages at the Xenia Post Office. New lighting fixtures are being installed in what is known as the work room in which mail is received and dispatched and they are being lowered to within nine feet from the floor as well as placed in more convenient positions.

Formerly the lights were located nearly nineteen feet above the floor, subjecting employees to a severe eye strain in handling mail.

The cost estimate includes a water supply for domestic use as well as fire protection for the entire village.

In his report the engineer took into consideration several sites under consideration where a water supply might be available but made no recommendation of any particular site because the state board of health must first pass upon the selection. ## CEDARVILLE GETS ESTIMATE OF WATER WORKS PLANT COST

Cost of installing a waterworks plant complete at Cedarville is conservatively estimated at $55,000 in a report submitted by Collins Wright, Dayton engineer, employed by the village council to make a survey and estimate of the probable expense of such a system.

It had been feared that the cost of installing a waterworks system might be prohibitive because of an unusual soil formation in certain parts of the town where rock comes to within a foot of the surface.

The cost estimate includes a water supply for domestic use as well as fire protection for the entire village.

In his report the engineer took into consideration several sites under consideration where a water supply might be available but he made no recommendation of any particular site because the state board of health must first pass upon the selection. Test wells must also be drilled and a suggested site might not have the advantage of a good water supply.

Engineer Wright based his cost estimate on plant operation on the probable half of the homes in Cedarville who use water at an average of $10 a year, giving the plant an income of $1,500 annually without taking into consideration water used by industrial plants or schools.

It is pointed out that the net revenue of the plant could be used to pay part of the cost of installation and make unnecessary any tax burden. The Yellow Springs plant, although only installed a year ago, is being operated at a profit, it is said.

Business men of that village likewise received a substantial reduction in their insurance rates, which eventually would more than counter-balance the cost of plant in installation.

The village council approved the report of the engineer and the next step expected to be taken by the council and citizens is to obtain the views of a representative of the state department of health.

MRS. ANNIE WATSON REMOVED BY DEATH SATURDAY MORNING

Mrs. Annie Watson, 80, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Alice Robinson, Upper Bellbrook Pike, at 4 o'clock Saturday morning as the result of a facial cancer. She had been in failing health for the last two years and was bedfast for the past three months.

She was born April 11, 1849 near Lumberton and has spent most of her life in Greene County. She made her home with her daughter for the last seven years.

Mrs. Watson is survived by four children: Mrs. Robinson, at home; Mrs. Mary Kennedy, Dayton; Mrs. Mary Bolen, Jamestown; and Mrs. Jennie Lersch, Elyria and twelve grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. One brother, William Downey and one sister, Mrs. Clinton Hook of Xenia also survive. Five children and her husband preceded her in death.

She was a member of the First M. E. Church, Xenia.

Funeral services will be held at the home of Mrs. Robinson Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with burial in Woodland cemetery. Friends may call at the residence after 2 o'clock Sunday.

PARTY'S THREE

COLUMBUS, O., July 6.—Governor Myers V. Cooper has pardoned three men serving sentences for liquor law violations and has commuted the sentences of seven state penitentiary convicts. Those pardoned included James Cardillo, serving out an $800 fine in the Lorain County Jail, and John Nickels and William Spencer, serving liquor sentences in the Stark County Workhouse.

BETTER LIGHTS

No longer will clerks and carriers strain their eyes while handling letters and packages at the Xenia Post Office.

New lighting fixtures are being installed in what is known as the work room in which mail is received and dispatched and they are being lowered to within nine feet from the floor as well as placed in more convenient positions.

Formerly the lights were located nearly nineteen feet above the floor, subjecting employees to a severe eye strain in handling mail.

FIREMAN'S BAUMASTER DEPARTS POST

William Baumaster, S. Monroe St., city fireman, has resigned effective July 15, it was disclosed Saturday by City Manager S. O. Hale.

Manager Hale said Baumaster's written resignation was submitted to him July 3 and that he had accepted it.

Baumaster was appointed a regular fireman May 1, 1927.

An examination will be held by the civil service commission at a date to be decided upon later to fill the vacancy in the department, Manager Hale announced.

After all applicants for the position have been examined, the commission will certify an eligible list of three to Manager Hale, who will make the appointment of Baumaster's successor from this list.

However, pending a decision of the commission, Manager Hale will have authority to make a temporary appointment when Baumaster's resignation becomes effective.

The romance of the show boat as told in the story of that name and the play that was made from the book, is real at Cincinnati this week where the Show Boat Golden Rod is docked on the Covington shore of the Ohio River.

But the blood and thunder melodrama is distinctly American. Famous are gone. The Golden Rod is playing "The It Girl," a modern four-act comedy drama by E. M. Paul and it tells the story of the visit of a girl from the West to the well-ordered home of a supposedly wealthy family in New York City.

The days of the romantic melodrama proved that nothing is too much to attempt in the show boat repertoire, and "The It Girl" has been pleasing audiences all along the Ohio since it opened on the Golden Rod, June 10 at Paducah, Ky.

And the actors say that the color and lure of the show boat remains the same. The Golden Rod is a leader of the floating theaters. It has a seating capacity of 1,250 and has gained an enviable reputation in its twenty-seven years on the river. It has a well-equipped stage,

Dustin Farnum, one of the better-known stage and screen actors, will be buried Sunday following services at the Little Church Around the Corner in New York. He died Wednesday. Farnum made his stage debut with his brother, William, in their boyhood home of Bucksport, Me., with the Ethel Tucker repertoire company in 1897. Among his great stage successes were "Arizona," "The Virginians," and "The Squaw Man" and he also appeared in the "Littlest Rebel." He had been married three times.

FRAMED

The St. Louis Cardinals are the surprise of the National League pennant season. The team that in 1928 won the championship of the senior circuit now has the unbeatable record of having lost ten straight games, is in fourth place and has won only one more game than it has lost.

The trouble seems to be an internal one. The makeup of the team is not much different from last season but the pitchers have not been going well and the all-around team play has been below normal.

Now the manager and owners are passing the buck to shift responsibility for the poor showing of the Cards.

The tail-end Cincinnati Reds made another strategic move Friday. Apparently the management believes the Reds are so well fortified in every position that they can dispense with the services of that promising recruit, Walter Shaner, who has been released to the Chattanooga nine of the Southern Association from whence he came. Shaner, a good batter and equally able to play the outfield or first base, had looked like a comer but never had a decent chance to play regularly. He may need more seasoning, the management probably knows best, but the Reds are not overburdened with baseball talent this season and Shaner was probably as good as they come on the Cincinnati team. Who will be Kelly's understudy from now on?

What has happened to the Harness Cigars, city softball champions in 1928? The National League entry has developed a batting slump which has resulted in the loss of three straight games. Figures reveal that Harness has only scored a total of six runs in its last three games, an average of two a game, which is unusual for this team.

As surprising as the slump of Harness is the new lease on life taken by the Lang Chevrolet Co. nine. Langs have won their last three games and in the last two contests have made a total of forty-one hits. Every member of the team is capable of hitting them far, wide and handsome and Langs are staging a real comeback fight that may carry the team to the league championship despite a poor showing early in the season.

CHAMPIONS SET BACK FOR THIRD TIME AS LANGS CONTINUE TO WIN

Continuing its winning ways, the Lang Chevrolet Co. softball team swamped the champion Harness Cigars by the overwhelming margin of 15 to 3 in a National League game Friday night at Cox Memorial Athletic Field.

Langs have now won their last three games and Harness has dropped three in a row. The victory boosted Langs into a tie with Harness for second place in the league, but both teams are now two full games behind the pace-setting Downtown Country Club.

Paul Boxwell and Leopold, who collaborated in pitching for Harness, were reached for a total of twenty-two hits while the light-hitting Harness nine collected only five off the delivery of Neville.

All of the Harness runs were unearned as two runs were scored in the third inning without a sign of a hit and a third tally in the

PULLING CONTEST FOR TEAMS FEATURE OF FAIR PROGRAM

A team pulling contest, an innovation at the annual Greene County Fair this year, is expected to prove one of the most attractive features of the August exposition.

F. B. Turnbull and Grant Miller are the fair board members in charge of this contest, which will be divided into two parts, one a Class A contest for teams weighing more than 3,000 pounds and a Class B contest for teams weighing under 3,000 pounds.

A dynamometer to test the pulling capacity of teams which enter has been obtained from Ohio State University and will be at the fair on Thursday and Friday during fair week.

Four prizes totalling $70 will be given in each contest.

The Class A pulling contest will take place in front of the grandstand at 10:30 a. m. August 8 and the Class B contest at 9:30 a. m. August 9.

First prize in each contest is $25, second prize is $20, third prize is $15 and fourth prize is $10.

Owners of teams who desire to enter either contest are urged to notify the members in charge.

CALLS POLICE AND IS ARRESTED FOR HIS SOLICITUDE

When Joseph Kearney, Cincinnati Ave., calls up Police Headquarters again to give a friendly "tip" he will disguise his voice.

The telephone at headquarters rang Friday night and a voice notified H. L. Karch, night desk sergeant, that an intoxicated gentleman had been observed on Cincinnati Ave. and that he was afraid the gentleman might be struck by an auto.

Karch recognized the voice of Kearney, traced the call to a filling station on W. Main St. and soon afterward Joe was locked up at Police Headquarters on an intoxicated charge.

A few days ago Kearney was fined $10 and costs by Mayor Karl R. Babb for drunkenness and was released on condition that he pay the assessment within thirty days.

He appeared before the mayor again Saturday morning and was ordered committed to the County Jail to work out the assessment.

Kearney was only released from jail a week ago after serving out a similar fine for intoxication. His arrest at that time was due to the fact he staggered into the jail, and asked the night turnkey to "show me around." The jailer escorted him to a cell.

The St. Louis Cardinals are the surprise of the National League pennant season. The team that in 1928 won the championship of the senior circuit now has the unbeatable record of having lost ten straight games, is in fourth place and has won only one more game than it has lost.

The trouble seems to be an internal one. The makeup of the team is not much different from last season but the pitchers have not been going well and the all-around team play has been below normal.

Now the manager and owners are passing the buck to shift responsibility for the poor showing of the Cards.

The tail-end Cincinnati Reds made another strategic move Friday. Apparently the management believes the Reds are so well fortified in every position that they can dispense with the services of that promising recruit, Walter Shaner, who has been released to the Chattanooga nine of the Southern Association from whence he came. Shaner, a good batter and equally able to play the outfield or first base, had looked like a comer but never had a decent chance to play regularly. He may need more seasoning, the management probably knows best, but the Reds are not overburdened with baseball talent this season and Shaner was probably as good as they come on the Cincinnati team. Who will be Kelly's understudy from now on?

What has happened to the Harpers Cigars, city softball champions in 1928? The National League entry has developed a batting slump which has resulted in the loss of three straight games. Figures reveal that Harpers has only scored a total of six runs in its last three games, an average of two a game, which is unusual for this team.

On the other hand the Lang counters were entirely due to hard slugging as Harpers played good ball at field, making only one error during the contest.

Leahy and L. Fuller led the winners at bat, each with four hits, followed by Bell and Staley with three hits apiece. During the course of the struggle Leahy and Staley hit home runs. No Harpers player made more than one hit.

The Lang nine scored in every inning but three and its big round was the fourth when five markers crossed the plate.

HOME CADET BAND IS NOW DISBANDED

Through the courtesy of Col. Charles V. Burton, superintendent of the O. S. and S. O. Home, the Home cadet band under the direction of Prof. H. E. Seall, gave an hour's concert in Shawnee Park Thursday night as one of the features of the community Fourth of July celebration. The concert was provided between 7 and 8 o'clock and marked the last opportunity for Xenians to hear the musical organization, which has now disbanded to permit members to enjoy summer vacations.

The band experienced an unusually busy month during June and wound up by furnishing the music during the annual reunion of former pupils of the institution July 2, 3 and 4.

BLASTING THEIR WAY TO PENNANT

The three-siege-guns of the Philadelphia Athletics irresistible attack are Al Simmons, Mickey Cochrane and Jimmy Foxx. With Foxx leading the American league and Simmons and Cochrane fighting it out for second place, Connie Mack is getting some wonderful hitting these days, and, as a result, is winning a lot of ball games.

CHAUTAUQUA OPENS HERE ON SATURDAY

Enhanced by picturesque native costumes, the Jugo-Slavia Tamburica Orchestra headed by Joseph Rotkovich offered a popular concert featuring homeland melodies to officially open Xenia's annual chautauqua program Saturday afternoon.

The first performance was given in a tent erected on the site of the old Xenia Central High School building, E. Church St.

This tamburica group will be presented in another concert Saturday evening and Dr. Hilton Ira Jones will give his lecture-demonstration announced as "Science and the Future." The evening program will start at 8 o'clock.

Sunday night the churches of Xenia will hold their weekly union service in the chautauqua tent.

CHEVROLET

Another Record!

over 800,000 New CHEVROLET Sixes on the road since Jan. 1st!

Today's Chevrolet is scoring a huge nationwide success because it represents one of the most sensational achievements in automotive history—a Six in the price range of the four.

The Chevrolet six-cylinder engine delivers its power freely, quietly, and easily throughout the entire speed range—delightfully free from annoying vibration and rumble. Combined with this remarkable six-cylinder smoothness are equally remarkable speed, power and acceleration—and an economy of better than twenty miles to the gallon.

In addition to such sensational performance the Chevrolet Six offers the outstanding advantages of Bodies by Fisher. And no car ever provided a more impressive array of modern convenience features—adjustable driver's seat and VV one-piece windshield in closed models, easy action clutch and gear-shift, ball bearing steering, and instrument panel complete even to theft-proof Electrolock and electric motor temperature indicator!
